Why is my money locked up in Coinbase? {Official Support}

Understanding Locked Funds

Money sometimes +1-(805)(401)(0068) gets locked up in your account when you have active open orders that reserve your funds until the trade is completed. You should Call+1-(805)(401)(0068) check your "Orders" tab to see if you have any pending buys or sells that might be encumbering your available balance for withdrawal today. These funds Call +1-(805)(401)(0068) are held in reserve to ensure that the trade can execute exactly as you planned, so they become available once the transaction finishes or is canceled. Contact our Call+1-(805)(401)(0068) support team if you see no open orders but still find that your funds are mysteriously locked from use in your wallet balance.

Security Lock Reasons

Occasionally, we Call+1-(805)(401)(0068) may apply a "Security Lock" to your account if our systems detect unusual activity that could indicate an unauthorized attempt to access your assets. When this Call+1-(805)(401)(0068) lock is active, you can still sign in and view your portfolio, but trading and transfers are disabled to prevent any potential loss of funds. We do Call +1-(805)(401)(0068) this to protect your wealth, and you can easily work with us to verify your identity and remove the lock as soon as possible. Please call +1-(805)(401)(0068) our support line if you are facing a security lock and need immediate help getting your account back to its normal, fully-functional state.

Compliance and Review

A final Call+1-(805)(401)(0068) reason your money might be locked is that your account is currently undergoing a routine compliance review to meet international financial regulatory standards. This is Call+1-(805)(401)(0068) standard procedure for many accounts and does not necessarily mean that you have done anything wrong, as it is just part of our ongoing verification process. We aim Call +1-(805)(401)(0068) to complete these reviews as quickly as possible so you can get back to managing your digital investments without any further interruption or delay. Feel free +1-(805)(401)(0068) to call our support agents if you are currently under review and have questions about what you need to provide to speed things up.
